

Once upon a letter, delivered to you by Jersey Post.

Write a story as a letter, max 500 words.

Dear Reader,
You may not believe me, but yesterday I met a superhero unlike any other. His name is Banana Boy, and no, he's not just a boy who eats bananas... HE'S MADE OF BANANAS!!! It all started when I was walking home from school and suddenly I heard a loud SPLAT! I turned around and saw a boy in a bright yellow cape slipping on his own banana peel. "Who are you?" I asked. He jumped up, brushed himself off and said, "I'm Banana Boy," he said triumphantly. Protector of the fruits and defender of healthy snacks everywhere.

Jersey
Post
Delivering for you

See www.jerseypost.com/write for terms and conditions and more information. Closing date - Friday 31st October 2025, 5pm.

Once upon a letter, delivered to you by Jersey Post.

Write a story as a letter, max 500 words.

I couldn't stop laughing but Banana Boy looked serious "It's not a joke and not sunny at all, Junk food Joe is on the loose". I have noticed a big man wearing a hoodie made of candies, it was Junk Food Joe, (throwing candy wrappers everywhere) stomping down the street. "Banana Boy, you will never stop me!" Joe shouted, holding a giant lollipop as a sword. Banana Boy crossed his arms and said "He will see about that!" then pulled out his secret power: the Banana Boomerang. He threw it through the air and it hit the lollipop right out of Junk Food Joe's hand! HHOOOSH!!

Jersey
Post
Delivering for you

See www.jerseypost.com/write for terms and conditions and more information. Closing date - Friday 31st October 2025, 5pm.

Once upon a letter, delivered to you by Jersey Post.

Write a story as a letter, max 500 words.

"Eat something healthy for once!" Banana Boy yelled throwing a piece of banana peel towards Junk Food Joe. Joe slipped on the banana peel (that Banana Boy threw) landed in the bin and then ran off mumbling. Everyone who was watching cheered. Before I could ask him more, Banana Boy handed me a tiny banana sticker. "Stick this on your lunchbox," he said "Whenever you need me, I'll be there." Then POOF! he vanished in a puff of yellow smoke, leaving behind some banana scent. So if you ever hear about a yellow-caped hero saving the day, don't doubt it...

Jersey
Post
Delivering for you

See www.jerseypost.com/write for terms and conditions and more information. Closing date - Friday 31st October 2025, 5pm.